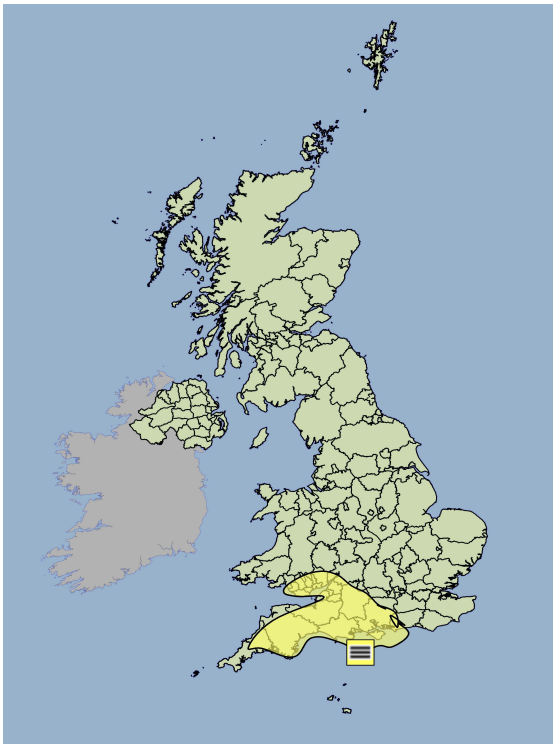
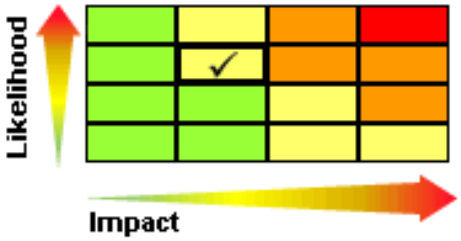
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Some dense fog patches have formed overnight where skies have been clear. This is an update to the warning issued on Saturday evening, to restrict the warning area to where the fog is most widespread in southwestern parts of the UK.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Fog

Valid from 08:30 on Sun, 04th Oct 2015 until 11:00 on Sun, 04th Oct 2015

Dense fog patches will continue to affect parts of south west England, central southern England and South Wales on Sunday morning. Not everywhere will see fog, but where it has formed visibility is likely to be below 100 metres, and below 50 metres in a few spots. The worst of the fog will lift and clear by late morning.

The public should be aware of the potential for some difficult driving conditions and minor travel disruption.
